El Dorado County, California

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

For other uses of the name, see El Dorado (disambiguation).

El Dorado County (official name El Dorado County) is a county in the U.S. state of California. As of the 2010 census, the population was 181,058.[1] The county seat is Placerville.[2]

El Dorado County is part of the Sacramento–Roseville–Arden-Arcade, CA Metropolitan Statistical Area. It is located entirely in the Sierra Nevada, from the historic Gold Country in the western foothills to the High Sierra in the east.

El Dorado County's population has grown as Greater Sacramento has expanded into the region. In the county's Lake Tahoe area, environmental awareness and environmental protection initiatives have grown along with the population since the 1960 Winter Olympics, hosted at Squaw Valley Ski Resort in neighboring Placer County.

History [edit]

Main articles: Sutter's Mill and California Gold Rush

What is now known as El Dorado County was home to the Maidu, Washoe, and Miwok Indigenous American nations for centuries. The region became famous for being the site of the 1848 gold discovery that sparked the California Gold Rush.[7] The County of El Dorado was one of California's original 27 counties created effective February 18, 1850 (the number has risen to 58 today). Its name is derived from the Spanish meaning "the golden one".[3]

Geography [edit]

According to the U.S. Census Bureau, the county has a total area of 1,786 square miles (4,630 km²), of which 1,708 square miles (4,420 km²) is land and 78 square miles (200 km²) (4.4%) is water.[8]

The county, owing to its location in the Sierra Nevada, consists of rolling hills and mountainous terrain. The northeast corner is in the Lake Tahoe Basin (part of the Great Basin), including a portion of the lake itself. Across the Sierra crest to the west lies the majority of the county, in the Sacramento River watershed. A portion of Folsom Lake is in the northwest corner of the county.

Much of the county is public land. The Eldorado National Forest comprises a significant portion (approximately 41%) of the county's land area, primarily on the western slope. The Lake Tahoe Basin Management Unit, primarily federal land, is part of the Eldorado and two other National Forests. Acreage managed in the east and west of the crest. The Pacific Crest Trail runs through the eastern part of the county, along or roughly paralleling the Sierra crest. The county is home to the Desolation Wilderness, a popular destination for hiking, backpacking, and fishing.

Population reported at 2010 United States Census [show]

2000 [edit]

As of the census[15] of 2000, there were 156,299 people, 58,939 households, and 43,025 families residing in the county. The population density was 91 people per square mile (35/km²). There were 71,278 housing units at an average density of 42 per square mile (16/km²). The racial makeup of the county was 89.7% White, 0.9% Black or African American, 1.0% Native American, 2.2% Asian, 0.2% Pacific Islander, 3.8% from other races, and 2.0% from two or more races. 9.3% of the population were Hispanic or Latino of any race. 14.9% were of German, 13.4% English, 10.3% Irish, 6.8% Italian and 6.8% American ancestry according to Census 2000. 95.6% spoke English and 6.5% Spanish as their first language.

There were 58,939 households, out of which 34.2% had youngsters under the age of 18 living with them, 65.1% were married couples living together, 8.9% had a female householder with no husband present, and 27.0% were non-families. 20.1% of all households were made up of individuals, and 7.7% had someone living alone who was 65 years of age or older. The average household size was 2.63 and the average family size was 3.04.

In the county, the population was spread out, with 25.1% under the age of 18, 6.8% from 18 to 24, 27.0% from 25 to 44, 28.9% from 45 to 64, and 12.4% who were 65 years of age or older. The median age was 39 years. For every 100 females, there were 99.5 males. For every 100 females age 18 and over, there were 97.4 males.

The 2000 census also states that the median income for a household in the county was $51,404, and the median income for a family was $60,292. Males had a median income of $46,373 versus $31,537 for females. The per capita income for the county was $25,560. About 6.5% of families and 9.2% of the population were below the poverty line, including 7.9% of those under age 18 and 6.0% of those age 65 or over.

Overview [edit]

El Dorado is a predominantly Republican county in presidential and congressional elections. However, from 1860 until 1952, the county was a Democratic stronghold, with Theodore Roosevelt and Warren Harding being the only two Republicans to carry the county. Since 1952, however, El Dorado has gone Democratic only three times: in 1960 narrowly for John F. Kennedy, in 1964 in a landslide for Lyndon Johnson, and in 1976 narrowly for Jimmy Carter.

	Treasurer	Watkins 53.3 - 41.3%
	Attorney General	Cooley 60.4 - 29.4%
	Insurance Commissioner	Jones 53.8 - 33.9%

The county is noted as a center of political concern with the United Nations non-binding sustainable development plan Agenda 21, which was on the County Board of Supervisors meeting Agenda on May 25, 2012. Concerns included the threat of U.S. Forest Service land closures and traffic roundabouts.[16] On February 26, 2013, the El Dorado County Board of Supervisors voted unanimously to oppose Senate Bill 51 authored by Senator Steve Knight.[17]

El Dorado County is in California's 4th congressional district, represented by Republican Tom McClintock.[18] In the State Assembly, the county is split between the 5th Assembly District, represented by Republican Frank Bigelow and the 8th Assembly District, represented by Republican Beth Gaines.[19] In the State Senate, it is in the 1st Senate District, represented by Republican Brian Dahle.[20]

- Tahoe Transportation District http://tahoetransportation.org/@ is the transit operator for the South Lake Tahoe area. Service also runs into the state of Nevada.

Airports [edit]

General aviation airports include Placerville Airport, Georgetown Airport, Cameron Park airport and Lake Tahoe Airport.

Asbestos [edit]

Portions of El Dorado County are known to contain natural asbestos formations near the surface.[22] The USGS studied amphiboles in rock and soil in the area in response to an EPA sampling study and subsequent criticism of the EPA study. The study found that many amphibole particles do not meet the fiber counting rule criteria used by the EPA for chemical and morphological tests, but do not meet morphological requirements to assess health risks associated with naturally occurring asbestos.[23]

In 2003 after construction of the Oak Ridge High School (El Dorado Hills) was finished, Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry found that some students' coaches and school workers had received excessive exposure to asbestos.[24]
