Yolo County, California

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

Yolo County, officially the County of Yolo, is a county located in the northern portion of the U.S. state of California. As of the 2010 census, the population was 200,849.[3] The county seat is Woodland.[4]

Yolo County is included in the Greater Sacramento metropolitan area and is located in the Sacramento Valley.

Contents [hide]

1 Etymology
2 History
3 Government
4 Geography
4.1 Adjacent counties
5 Transportation
5.1 Major highways
5.2 Class I trails
5.3 Public transportation
5.4 Airports
5.5 Port
6 Crime
6.1 Cities by population and crime rates
7 Politics
7.1 Cities by population and voter registration
8 Demographics
8.1 2011
8.2 2010
8.3 2000
9 Education
9.1 Public schools
9.2 Colleges and universities
10 Communities
10.1 Cities
10.2 Census-designated places
10.3 Other unincorporated communities
10.4 Population ranking
11 See also
12 Notes
13 References
14 External links

Etymology [edit]

In the original act of 1850 the name was spelled "Yola." Yola is a Patwin Native American name usually translated to be a corruption of a tribal name Yo-hah meaning "a place abounding in rushes", the village of Yolo, believed to be in the vicinity of Knights Landing, Yolo County, at the time of the chief's seat village, Yodoi.[5][6]

History [edit]

Yolo County was one of the original counties of California, created in 1850 at the time of statehood.

Government [edit]

The county is governed by a board of five district supervisors as well as the governments of its four incorporated cities: Davis, West Sacramento, Winters, and Woodland.

Geography [edit]

According to the U.S. Census Bureau, the county has a total area of 1,024 square miles (2,650 km²), of which 1,013 square miles (2,630 km²) is land and 9 square miles (23 km²) (0.9%) is water.[7][2]

Adjacent counties [edit | edit source]

- Colusa County - north
- Sutter County - northeast
- Sacramento County - east
- Solano County - south
- Napa County - west
- Lake County - northwest

Transportation [edit | edit source]

See also: Transportation in the Sacramento metropolitan area

Major highways [edit]

- I-5
- I-80
- SR 16
- SR 20
- SR 45
- SR 84
- SR 113
- SR 128

County roads [edit]

Addressing in Yolo County is based on a system of numbered county roads. The numbering system is as follows:

1. Even-hundred numbers run from east to west, increasing from 0 in Solano County to 2400 in Lake County.
2. East–West roads have numbers from 1 to 36A, and from 101 to 161, and increase from north to south.

Each integer road number is generally one mile (1.6 km) apart, and thus the system is known as the "Mile Square" system. County roads entering urban areas generally become named roads once they cross a city boundary. Some examples include County Road 101 in Woodland being named Pioneer Ave. and County Road 102 (also known as County Route 102 in Davis being named Pole Line Rd.

Public transportation [edit | edit source]

- Yolobus (Yolo County Transportation District) runs buses throughout Yolo County and into Sacramento, and Sacramento International Airport.[11]
- The University of California, Davis and the city of Davis jointly run Unitrans, a combination local city bus and campus shuttle.[12]
- Fairfield-Suisun Transit Line 30 also stops in Davis on its runs between Fairfield (Solano County) and Sacramento.
- Amtrak has a station in Davis.

Airports [edit | edit source]

- Yolo County Airport
- University Airport
- Rongen Darlington Airport
- Walnut Woodland Airport

Crime [edit]

The Port of Sacramento, now known as the Port of West Sacramento, is an inland port in West Sacramento, California, in the Sacramento metropolitan area. It is 79 nautical miles (146 km) northeast of San Francisco, and is connected to the California Central Valley, one of the richest agricultural regions in the world.

The following table includes the numbers of violent crimes and property crimes per 1,000 residents.

Population and crime rates	[hide]
Population[13]	199,889
Violent crime	558
Homicide[14]	7
Forcible rape[15]	66
Robbery[16]	171
Aggravated assault[17]	315
Property crime[18]	2,918
Burglary[19]	1,307
Larceny-theft[20][21]	1,344
Motor vehicle theft[22]	559
Arson[23]	28

Cities by population and crime rates [edit | edit source]

Cities by population and crime rates					[hide]
City	Population[24]	Violent crime[25]	Violent crime rate per 1,000 persons	Property crime[26]	Property crime rate per 1,000 persons
Davis	69,289	107	1.53	2,190	31.39
West Sacramento	53,737	212	3.90	1,603	29.40
Winters	7,266	9	1.22	64	12.49
Woodland	60,531	224	3.66	1,408	24.32

Politics [edit]

Yolo is a strongly Democratic county in presidential and congressional elections. The last Republican presidential candidate to win a majority in the county was Dwight Eisenhower in 1952, which is the longest Democratic streak in any county.[citation needed] In fact, since 1932, Eisenhower's 1956 win is the only time the county was carried by the Republican presidential nominee.

Presidential elections results	[show]

Yolo County has been somewhat more likely to elect Republican governors since then (Ronald Reagan carried the county in 1966, George Deukmejian in 1986, and Arnold Schwarzenegger in 2003 and 2006).

Yolo is in California's 4th House of Representatives, Yolo County is split between the 3rd and 6th congressional districts,[27] represented by John Garamendi (D–Walnut Grove)[28] and Doris Matsui (D–Sacramento).[29] respectively.

In the California State Senate, the county is split between the 3rd and 8th Senate districts,[30] represented by Bill Dodd and Richard Pan, respectively.

In the California State Assembly, the county is split between the 4th and 7th Assembly districts,[31] represented by Cecilia Aguiar-Curry and Kevin McCarty, respectively.

In June 1978, Yolo was one of only three counties in the entire state to reject Proposition 13 (the others being San Francisco and Kern).[citation needed]

In November 2008, Yolo was one of just three counties in California's interior in which voters rejected Proposition 8 by a narrow margin. Yolo voters rejected Proposition 8 by a vote of 50.65 percent to 49.35 percent. The other interior counties in which Proposition 8 failed to receive a majority of votes were Alpine County and Mono County.[32]

Population and registered voters	[show]

Cities by population and voter registration [edit | edit source]

Cities by population and voter registration
City	Population[24]	Registered voters[33] (see 1)	Democratic[34]	R–D spread[35]	Other[36]	No party preference[37]
Davis	65,359	57.6%	54.0%	14.7%	+39.3%	7.1%	26.3%
West Sacramento	47,276	44.9%	61.7%	28.0%	+33.7%	5.4%	32.9%
Winters	6,616	50.3%	44.8%	27.6%	+17.2%	7.9%	22.6%
Woodland	55,229	46.3%	43.7%	30.4%	+13.3%	8.2%	20.9%

Demographics [edit]

2011 [edit | edit source]

Population, race, and income [show]

Places by population, race, and income [edit | edit source]

| Places by population and race | | | | | | |